

Society and the Internet

How Networks of Information and Communication are Changing Our Lives

Edited by Mark Graham, University of Oxford and William H. Dutton, University of Oxford

- Interdisciplinary appeal across the social sciences
- Chapters focus on showing how research can inform and stimulate debate on theory, policy, and practice
- Accessibly written and clearly structured introduction to the social shaping of the Internet and its societal implications
- Ideal for advanced courses on the Internet and ICT

Internet Studies is a burgeoning new field, which has been central to the Oxford Internet Institute (OII), an innovative multi-disciplinary department at the University of Oxford. Society and the Internet builds on the OII's evolving series of lectures on society and the Internet.
